

Human Rights Policy

1 Introduction

BMC Software's Human Rights Policy is anchored in our core mission to uphold and champion human rights and freedoms. We are dedicated to adhering to and promoting human rights consistent with global norms as a member of the UN Global Compact and outlined by the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights, the International Bill of Human Rights, and the principles set by the International Labour Organization. This policy demonstrates our commitment to embedding human rights considerations into every aspect of our operations, including our business practices, decision-making frameworks, and throughout our supply chain. It establishes clear guidelines for conduct and human rights, empowering BMC to pinpoint and address our impacts on human rights, reduce potential risks, and promote human rights in a transparent manner that engages our stakeholders. Human rights, as we define them, encompass the essential freedoms and standards of treatment that are acknowledged by most governments, businesses, and individuals worldwide.

The prosperity of BMC's business is intricately linked to our capacity to foster trusted relationships with our colleagues, customers, suppliers, governments, and community partners. We are proactively involved in charitable initiatives, humanitarian endeavors, and sustainable projects that enhance digital literacy, foster digital solutions, and promote technological fairness, aligning our efforts with the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals.

2 Scope and Compliance

This policy is applicable to all officers, directors, employees, and affiliates of BMC Software. Failure to comply with the policy, including not reporting actual or suspected violations of which you are aware, may result in disciplinary action, including but not limited to termination of employment.

This policy applies to all BMC employees. Employees are required to comply with this policy as described in the Overview of Corporate Policies.
